Evansville-Based Kinetic Professional Church Builders to Host Seminar for Church Leaders

Seminar will address current best practices for churches planning to build

Kinetic Professional Church Builders, a member of the National Association of Church Design Builders, will host a seminar to offer current best practices for church leaders approaching construction projects. The seminar, the second in a three-part series, will discuss building trends and how to manage the physical, financial and organizational challenges of a church building project. Part two will focus specifically on planning for the future.

“Trends: What Every Pastor Needs to Know,” will include the following topics:

- Master Planning: Investing in the Next Generation
- Faith and Financing: Financing Your Construction Project

The seminar will address the building needs of pastors/ associate pastors, strategic planning teams, finance teams, building teams, leadership teams and administrators. Cost is $45 per person.

Part three of the seminar will focus on “Money and the Green Church” and will be held in the spring of 2009.
